Professor Zolberg is one of the pioneers in the analysis of new states in francophone West Africa. He has taught at the Universities of Wisconsin and Chicago and has been a Visiting Professor at Northwestern University and at the Institute of Advanced Studies at Princeton University. His chair puts him into frequent contact with Eastern European scholars. He has published many articles and books, the latest of which is Escape from Violence: Conflict and the Refugee Crisis in the Developing World. (1989) His current interests are focused on regional minorities in advanced industrial societies, and in nation states as violators of human rights.
